ANN PENNINGTON, FAMOUS PLAYERS-PARAMOUNT STAR.

The diminutive star of the Ziegfeld "Follies" who makes her motion picture debut in Famous Players productions on the Paramount Program. As she is celebrated as one of the cleverest little dancers and comedienne on Broadway, it is especially fitting that she should first appear on the screen in the title role of "Sue and Snowflake," a musical comedy star who scandalizes the home folks back in the old town by bringing her Gotham tactics to bear on the little rural community.

HER SIDE—AND HIS

(By Zoe Beckley)

BEING A GOOD SPORT.

In the nervous, doubt-filled days following David's imperious command to "sell everything, give up the apartment and come to Pittsburgh" Cora would have given much for an understanding friend. Of course there was Cousin Beth. But Beth was so futile. She would cry and say, "Oh, you poor darling! Aren't men simply impossible? Headstrong and untrustworthy. David's determined to be a high flier. I can see trouble for you, dear."

No, that was not the kind of advice Cora sought. Who, then, could she talk to? How she longed for a big brother! A man would advise her best in a situation like this. How about Tom Woodward, Beth's husband—a dear chap, strong as a rock, kind as a woman, wise as a judge, dependable as his wife was weak and unreasoning? She decided to talk with Tom. He and Beth had weathered uncounted differences. Tom would tell her what to do.

Cora put on her trimmest suit, a plain, dashing little hat and a reckless pair of white gloves to match her immaculate spats. She reached Woodward's office just as a distressingly plain stenographer emerged with a batch of "dictation."

"I can see Beth's fine Italian hand in the selection of Tom's secretary," thought Cora as the office boy showed her in.

"Why Cora Temple!" greeted Tom as she grasped her hands. "What are you doing down in Wall street—looking for a job? I'd take you in a minute if my wife would let me." Never saw my so fine and fit!

"It's my clothes, Tom. Dave's about to make a million and I'm dressing the part. That's what I came to ask you about if you can spare ten minutes." Cora was serious now. Tom regarded her with understanding kindness.

"Shoot!" said he, with masculine brevity.

Cora sketched David's sudden plunge into ambition, his new rich friends, his explosive command to dismantle their home, smarten her wardrobe, cut loose from the old life and join his uncertain fortunes. Then

The Doctor's Advice

By Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice free may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials of fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

Dr. Druggists supply in sealed tubes, with full directions.

Miss C. W. R. asks: "I have tried for two years to diet so as to increase my weight and improve the quality of my blood, but in vain. Please prescribe for me."

Answer: Thin, scrawny, bloodless people need assistance in absorbing nutriment from the food eaten, and for this particular purpose I always prescribe three-grain hypo-nutrient tablets, a most effective preparation if regularly and persistently used, as it seems to increase the red and white corpuscles of the blood, thus affording health, strength and increased weight.

M. J. B. asks: "My hair is too oily and my scalp itches with dandruff, and of late it is coming out too much. What is a good treatment?"

Answer: Obtain plain yellow minoxidil from your druggist in 4-oz. jars and apply as per directions. This cleanses, purifies, cools and invigorates the hair and scalp, thus stopping the death of the hair. Dandruff and itching are at once relieved. Men and women all over the country now use it regularly.

"Essex" writes: "What should I do to relieve a severe case of kidney and bladder disease? Urine is dark, foul of odor, and passage is irregular, painful. Have depression, fever, chills, pains like rheumatism, and soreness in region of bladder."

Answer: For such symptoms as you under the name of balsam tablets. This is a splendidly efficacious remedy for such abnormal conditions. Begin their use as per directions on each sealed tube.—Advertisement.

she told her side of it.

Tom listened attentively. "Shall I be very frank with you?" he asked, making rows of little dents in his desk blotter with the point of a letter opener. An emphatic nod sent him rapidly on. "Well, girl, I'd pack my traps and chase after him. I know exactly how you feel. You want to do the wisest, safest thing. I know it isn't easy to break up a home and hike. But I know David. I know men. I suspect your heart, Cora, who I tell you I'd give my right arm if Beth had been—well, a good sport. But Beth has never shown a bit of confidence in me. She has combated me at every turn. I'm not blaming her. It's her nature and upbringing.

"I've made some success. But it would have been quicker and bigger—and easier if my wife had trusted me and not held me back from the very day of our marriage. Take a sporting chance, Cora! Dave needs you more right now than he will a month from now. If he loses his enthusiasm it will mean failure of the worst kind—the kind that comes from discouragement.

"If you join him with a gay heart or the pretense of one and still he fails; remember you are both young. You can scramble back. We male animals love to buy our experiences. Cora. If our mates aid and abet us, you've no idea how it helps. And if they don't—"

Tom stopped abruptly and Cora gently nodded him. "If they don't, what, Tom?"

"Well—sometimes some other woman does the encouraging. Oh, I'm not being personal. Dave is the salt of the earth, Cora. Gosh! a girl with your looks and your brains has nothing to fear! But when a chap's disposition sags and the reaction sets in—"

In a flash Cora saw a new side to the problem; several, in fact. She rose and held out both her hands with a grateful, comprehending smile. "Tom, you darling old angel, you've helped me so! I see things more clearly and so differently. I shall go straight to Dave and say, 'Pittsburg, I'm so glad I came to you!'

Woodward grasped her outstretched hands with fervor. "I'm glad, too," he said quietly.

When the door had closed behind Cora's trim little figure he laid both arms upon his desk, his face between them.

SHOES FOR WOMEN.

There are many fashions in this world that women should not adopt, and certain types of shoes are among them. No argument along this line, based on the introduction of the blue, green and maroon boots, availed last autumn. To the amazement of the better class of Americans who were intensely proud of American shoes, these gaudy vulgarities were adopted by hundreds of women. After them came the amazing popularity of the high, white shoe which was worn all winter with dark spats.

This was a caprice in which none but the rich could indulge and in which none of the rich did indulge. White spats were the rivals of white shoes, but they were more economical as they did not come directly in contact with the mud and ice of city streets.

Because of the popularity of the white shoes in the winter, those for summer are fashioned in the same manner for sports use. Tennis shoes reach 10 inches from the ground and are made of canvas and many kinds of soft, undressed kid which are banded with black leather, and another kind is of a light cream banded with brown leather.

Although the strappings of dark kid make the foot look smaller and give more style to a white shoe, the objection to them is the difficulty of cleaning; it hard to keep the white paste off the black or brown leather, and it takes skill and patience to get it right.

Paris Exploits the Oxford Tie.

There is very little return to the popularity of the flat-heeled, mannish pump with the bow across the camp. It may, however, become popular later in the summer, for there is a strong tendency on the part of fashionable women to adopt flat-heeled shoes for morning and country use.

Since February, smart women have been seen on the street wearing flat-heeled, round-toed, highly-polished Russian leather oxfords with extra high spats in a lighter shade of brown.

PEPPER USES.

Not so many years ago the northern housewife found but one use for the pepper pod. She employed it in the making of pepper-hash, green cabbage relish and occasionally served it whole stuffed with chopped spiced and pickled cabbage or cucumbers. Even the sweet pepper was considered a little too warm for the normal palate unless it was mixed with vinegar and the milder vegetables. Frequent visits to our southern cousins and Mexican neighbors have enlightened us as to the real culinary possibilities and value of the pepper-pod. The untraveled has no idea of the common garden variety of the north is mild indeed compared to the fiery Mexican chili. But the latter, used in combination with foods that seem to require the snap and piquancy the chili imparts, soon become an essential to the cook who knows that by the aid of "pepper ticklers" and knowledge of foods and good judgment in selecting materials, the cost of living may be materially reduced while the appetite maintains a healthy tone with a relish for every meal that compensates one for all the time, thought and care bestowed upon the rather taxing occupation of preparing three meals per day.

FETE OLD FOLKS

At BRIGHAM CITY.

Brigham City, June 15.—Twenty-six automobiles, carrying 140 persons from the Curlew stake in western Boxelder county, arrived in Brigham yesterday, the excursion being the outing of the old folks of that stake. In the party were about 100 old people, who were the guests of the people of the stake.

After the long ride over the dusty roads, some coming as far as 100 miles, the old folks rested for a while, then dinner was served in the City restaurant. During the dinner a number of local singers entertained with instrumental and vocal selections. After dinner the party was entertained at the Alta theater. Last night the visitors were cared for by friends, the local old folks' committee aiding in finding places for them. The party left the city together during the early hours of the day and the long ride home was a way before the weather became too hot.

WONDERFUL PICTURES OF ANTARCTIC REGION

The Chautauqua last evening offered strong competition to the National Democratic convention in session at St. Louis. The spacious tent in which the Chautauqua is held, was filled with an audience varied in age and size, but harmonious in taste for high class entertainment.

The boys from the industrial school, dressed in their olive uniforms, occupied seats in the west front of the tent.

The Edwin R. Weeks company was the first on the program. Their clean wholesome entertainment was sprinkled with enjoyment for all ages. There was a total absence of the mechanical pretension so common on our vaudeville stage and so distasteful if prominent enough to be noticed to any extent.

Miss Olive Woodward, a charming and talented young lady, literally humanized the violin in her rendition of "Hjker" by Hubay. The music of the violin is the nearest approach to the human voice that musical science has yet advanced and the very soul of the instrument spoke in the mellow melody of Miss Woodward's manipulation.

Mr. Weeks broadened the entertainment with bits of timely wit, humorous impersonations of such notable characters as Bryan, Roosevelt and Cannon and burlesques on the intense classical music of Carus and Madam Shumann Heink. In a condensed musical play entitled "Pretending," Mr. and Mrs. Weeks turned the mirror of hypocrisy to the gaze of the audience and, seasoned with touches of genuine truth, demonstrates the falsity and deceit of some of the "elite."

Mr. and Mrs. Weeks sang a clever medley in which they branched from the popular tune of the old southern ballads, which, linked with the acting, was indeed a rare treat. The encores were so loud and insistent that Mr. Weeks came back and, thanking the audience for the appreciation.

Dr. Hunsberger gave a lecture in conjunction with a motion picture of the explorations and discoveries of Sir Ernest Shackleton in the bleak Antarctic region. The pictures were so absorbing at times one forgot his surroundings to the extent of an audible utterance on the terrible sufferings endured by those iron men in the interest of the advancement of science and the furtherance of geographical learning. Icebergs towering like colossal marble castles, were shown floating like mighty swans on the blue waters of the south pole region. The program outlined for today is recommended fully as highly as yesterday's which means that no person in Ogden who is physical able can afford to miss it.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles as to give a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by any druggist under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.—Advertisement.

MRS. L. P. FULKERSON IS LAID TO REST

The funeral of Mrs. Louise Peery Fulkerson, wife of Emmett Fulkerson, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. D. H. Peery, 2431 Adams avenue. The home was filled to its capacity with friends and relatives of the deceased and floral tributes in profusion surrounded the bier.

Bishop Robert McQuarrie presided at the service and the musical numbers consisted of the quartet, "Rest," sung by Ralph E. Shorten, Leslie S. Hinchliffe, the solo, "A Perfect Day," by Walter Stephens, and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and "There Is No Night," by Mrs. Mary H. Stevens.

The speakers were T. S. Brown, President James W. Wooterspoon and Apostle David O. McKay. Their words were highly eulogistic of the life of Mrs. Fulkerson, and President Wooterspoon read the following poem, which had been selected by the deceased before her death and which had much impressed her:

OH! FOR A PERFECT TRUST.—Isaiah 26; Philip 4: 7.

Oh! for the peace of a perfect trust, My loving God, in Thee; Unwavering faith, that never doubts

Thou chooseth best for me.

Best, though my plans be all o'er-thrown.

Best, though the way be rough;

Best, though my store be scant;

In Thee I have enough.

Best, though my health and strength be gone.

Though weary days be mine,

Shut out from much that others have,

Not my will, Lord, but Thine.

And even though disappointments come,

They, too, are best for me.

To wean me from this changing world,

And lead me nearer Thee.

Oh! for the peace of a perfect trust

That looks away from all;

That sees Thy hand in everything,

In great events or small.

That hears Thy voice — a Father's voice,

Directing for the best;

Oh! for the peace of a perfect trust,

A heart with Thee at rest.

Following the reading of the poem, Mrs. Mary H. Stevens sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and "There Is No Night." The benediction was pronounced by Joseph C. McFarland. An automobile cortege followed the body of the deceased to the city cemetery, where it was interred. The grave was dedicated by George Shorten.

SCALP ITCHED HAIR FELL OUT

Big Flakes of Dandruff Would Peel Off. Hair Dry and Lifeless. In Six Weeks Completely

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"Dandruff first started by my scalp being too dry. I washed my hair often but in two or three days big flakes of dandruff would peel off. My scalp itched all of the time and the itching was so intense during the day that I had to irritate my scalp by scratching. My hair fell out and became dry and lifeless.

"The trouble lasted about four months before I started using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I rubbed the ointment on my scalp at night and washed it out in the morning with the Cuticura Soap. In six weeks I was completely well." (Signed) Miss Ruby Beck, Lehi, Utah, July 15, 1915.

TRIED TO ASSAULT TWO LITTLE GIRLS

Salt Lake, June 16.—After attempting to assault two ten-year-old west side girls near the Saltair tracks, at 5 o'clock last night, John Smyth, 22, a shepherd of Dubois, Idaho, was shot through the leg and captured by Patrolman C. A. Middleton after a lively chase of more than two miles along the Jordan river, in which more than 100 west side residents participated.

Following the shooting and capture of Smyth, which occurred at Second South street, and the river, it was with difficulty that the officers were able to rescue the man from the infuriated residents, and get him to the police station. Smyth had a framed story to tell the officers at first, but later admitted his guilt, according to Police Captain Riley M. Beckstead.

The two little girls were Grace Peterson, 1325 West South Temple street, and Katherine Rudler, 1321 Jordan avenue. They said the man stopped them on West North Temple street and offered to pay them to accompany him along the Saltair railroad tracks to search for some lost money. They went with him and when out of sight of houses, he attempted to assault them, they said. During their walk along the tracks they were passed by James H. McClure, 113 Fairbanks street who called police headquarters.

and often does not yield as patient and doctor think it should. All doctors agree that rest, fresh air, pure food and hygienic living surroundings are essential to relief, especially in the early stages. Yet, in many cases these measures do not bring the desired results.

Under such circumstances try Eckman's Alternative. It has been commended as highly beneficial by many sufferers and often has aided in recovery.

One of its constituents is a lime salt, so combined with other helpful ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person; and, since it does not contain any narcotic, opiate or habit-forming drug, its use is not attended with danger. At your druggist's.

General Manager C. B. Lakenan at his home here tonight tendered a farewell dinner to Dr. Early. A number of the high officials of the Nevada Consolidated, including Business Manager Lakenan, Superintendent Marsh, Attorneys Charles S. Chandler and B. L. Quayle, as well as Drs. R. H. Richardson and Lew Wallace, were in attendance at the dinner and bade the former chief surgeon goodbye.

Dr. and Mrs. Early, after visiting at their former home in Indianapolis for a short time, will continue the journey to France, and the doctor will spend some months in the hospitals of Europe.

In Washington the colored servants, as a rule go to their own homes at night. The cook in the family of a clergyman not only does this, but of late has frequently arrived at the rectory her mistress told her that, for each breakfast missed, there would be a reduction in her weekly wages. Maria passively assented to this. The next day the mistress heard this conversation between the maid next door and the delinquent cook.

"Pears to me you git to work mighty late."

"I gits to work when I gits ready."

"How does yo' manage de breakfast?"

"Oh, I pays de missus to cook de breakfast."
